APRIL 2026

Dear Parents,

We are raising a generation of children who are free-spirited and remarkably quick in processing information. They move from one idea to another not because they lack focus, but because they are able to filter rapidly. They are inventive, even creating their own evolving language, almost like modern-day Shakespeare.

Yet, this same generation can struggle with routine and discipline. Many spend long hours gaming or on their phones, and structure does not always come naturally to them.

In a recent conversation with my senior students, I discovered something important. Beneath the noise and distraction, they long for direction. They want guidance on managing sleep, handling exam stress, building confidence, and maintaining consistency. And sometimes, the voices they need to hear are not always those closest to them.

With this in mind, before students leave for study break and their upcoming examinations, we felt it was important to bring in experienced individuals who could offer perspective and encouragement. We begin with fitness coach, Ruslan Hossain, and hope his session provides the clarity and motivation our students need at this crucial time.

I am also pleased to share that our teachers from PG to Class 3 recently completed an in-depth training with Educational Specialist Ms. Mona Qaiser. The focus was on strengthening early literacy - reading, writing, and listening - as well as better supporting students with diverse learning needs. In an academically competitive environment, equipping our teachers with the right tools ensures that every child receives the support necessary to thrive.

As we guide our O and A Level student in the coming months, let us work together in reinforcing routine, consistency, and discipline. Encourage them to push beyond comfort, to stay focused on their goals, and to make choices that protect their growth, health, and future success.

RECENT TRAININGS

A series of professional development workshops were held over the month of Ramadan.

From Phonics to Reading: CGSD and Lower School teachers attended an intensive 3-day training programme on teaching phonics and developing reading. Special needs and literacy trainer, Mona Qaiser (below) travelled from overseas to train teachers in both cities.

Identifying students at risk for special needs: Ms Qaiser held a seminar for all faculty members on identifying and supporting all types of learners. Participants were given training on identifying and supporting every student through timely strategies for student interventions.

Fitness Session: Mr. Ruslan recently conducted an interactive well-being session for Classes 9 to 11. Key topics included Ramadan study strategies, stress management, and discipline. Students also gained practical advice on physical fitness, nutrition, and building the mental resilience needed to navigate academic pressure and future careers.

Class News...

Dear Parents and Students,

It is wonderful to have the students back at school after the Eid holidays. As the Summer Term has just begun, teachers have already started working on the new term's syllabus. We also look forward to celebrating Pohela Boishakh in the coming weeks and embracing the spirit of the Bengali New Year together. Additionally, we sincerely appreciate the valuable feedback shared during the Winter Term PTM held on 10 March 2026.

Best regards,

Class 4 Teachers
